

King and Queen Technology Leadership Team
-Minutes-
June 9, 2003

Monday, June 9, 2003, is the day the King and Queen Information Trail (kqinfotrail) went “live” to the public. At the regular Board of Supervisor’s meeting at 7:00 p.m., The Trail was introduced to Board members and county residents in attendance. Alinda Uzel made introductory statements and recognized Team members for their hard work and dedication. Jon Johnson then began taking those present on an exploration of the site with Matt Lewis as the computer navigator. Several Team members were present at the Board meeting, also. Bookmarks with the web site address were distributed to all present.

Following the presentation, the Chair, Sherrin Alsop, thanked the Team for the presentation and her comments were followed by a rousing round of applause from the Board and citizens.

After the presentation, Team members excused themselves and held the regular meeting in the 2nd Floor Conference Room. Discussion revolved around the positive response and future promotion.

At the suggestion of Mathew Mathai, it was decided to hold off on actively promoting the site for about a week. However, it was decided to send flyers home with all the elementary school students prior to the last day of school.

Team members present thought it would be a good idea to distribute bookmarks to the library, get Country Courier to insert the flyer into a future newspaper run, develop posters and brainstorm other means of promotion at the next meeting.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, July 15 at 7:00 p.m.

With no further business, the Team meeting dismissed. Some Team members returned to the Board meeting. At the close when it was time for Supervisors’ Comments, Lawrence Simpkins shared with the Board and those present his deep appreciation for the hard work of the TLT and the many ways the existence of the Trail could positively impact the community.
